Giving Voice to Values

How to find your voice and lead with integrity

Professor Mary C. Gentile will share a ground-breaking approach to preparing leaders and managers for values-driven decision making. Drawing on both the actual experience of business practitioners as well as cutting edge research, Giving Voice to Values fills a critical gap in our understanding of how to promote ethical practice in the workplace. Rather than focusing on ethical analysis, GVV focuses on ethical implementation and asks the question: “What if I were going to act on my values? What would I say and do?”

Professor Gentile will explore ways in which people can build the skills, the confidence, the habits, and the ethical muscle to act on their convictions when they know what is right.

GVV was developed by Professor Gentile, a veteran of Harvard Business School, and is now being piloted in over 880 educational and executive settings. GVV holds the promise to transform the foundational assumptions upon which the teaching of business ethics is based, and to equip future leaders to not only know what is right — but how to make it happen.

Mary C. Gentile, PhD, is the Creator and Director of Giving Voice to Values, Professor of Practice at the University of Virginia Darden School of Business, Senior Advisor at The Aspen Institute, and a consultant on leadership education. From 1985 – 1995 she was a faculty member at Harvard Business School and one of the principal architects of Harvard’s Leadership, Ethics and Corporate Responsibility curriculum.

In 2015, Gentile was named as one of the 100 Most Influential Individuals in Business Ethics by Ethisphere and recognised with a Top Thought Leader Lifetime Achievement Award by Trust Across America.

Giving Voice to Values has been featured in Financial Times, Harvard Business Review, Stanford Social Innovation Review, McKinsey Quarterly, and piloted in over 880 business schools and organisations globally.
