Google goes Platinum!

Google has joined THETA 2019 as the pre-eminant Platinum Sponsor. Google's Higher Education Lead, Paul Hutchings, says they are excited to be working with the THETA Organising Committee to shape this world-class event. THETA is all about the intelligent use of information technology in higher education and research, a space where the Google Cloud Platform is having notable impact. "Google are delivering innovative digital technology solutions that create sustainable and vibrant infrastructures for communities and enterprises", says Hutchings. Conference Chair and Director of the University of Wollongong's Information Management & Technology Services Division, Fiona Rankin, couldn't agree more. She acknowledges Google's role in driving digital transformation across the institution. Don't miss the opportunity to connect with Paul and his team at THETA 2019 to find out how Google

Speaker program taster

"A lot of my inspiration comes from the years I spent working at Rolling Stone Magazine in New York City during the eighties. All the musical artists that created new forms of music. That is what I try to create for my students, a unified learning beat that will allow them to take on challenges that comes from societal change. I want my students to become Agents of Change" (Christel Brost, THETA 2019 Keynote). Register now to see Christel present >

Kicking off THETA with an incredibly unique show

Don't miss experiencing the hugely energetic acoustic Hot Potato Band at the THETA Welcome Reception. One of the most celebrated street and stage performing bands in Australia, the Hot Potato Band mixes the most infectious rhythms across jazz, roots, pop and world music with a strong foundation in the heartland of Big Band, New Orleans.
