

THE UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME AUSTRALIA

Graduate Certificate in Health Leadership

School of Medicine, Fremantle Campus

At the University of Notre Dame Australia, School of Medicine, we are dedicated to the provision of education that is designed and presented in collaboration with the health sector to support the translation of learning into practice.

The Graduate Certificate in Health Leadership provides a unique opportunity to study, network and learn from experts across the professions. The WA Health, Institute for Health Leadership (2019), leadership model focuses on 'Courageous, values-aligned, collaborative and systems-focused' leaders, which will form the foundations of this program. Provided in partnership, all students benefit from program fee reduction.

Why study this degree?

The Graduate Certificate in Health Leadership

(GCHL) supports health professionals who want to consolidate or further their leadership career. The program provides students with a comprehensive introduction to the core principles of management and leadership within the complex health arena, in which consumers and their significant others play a central role. Students complete two core courses to support their development as a health professional leader and undertake a significant workplace project to demonstrate application of learning.

Program summary

The Graduate Certificate will be provided through Master Classes to engage both academic and health industry speakers to provide an engaging, thought provoking and safe space to explore the complexities of health and health leadership. Master classes provide a space for the sharing of ideas, exploring solutions, networking and building communities of interest.

Full details of the program requirements are contained in the Program Regulations

Mode of study and assessment

The Graduate Certificate in Health Leadership is provided over one year of part time study. Students attend four full day masterclasses on campus at Fremantle, and are supported by online learning modules. Course assessments support student engagement with their worksite, including a work place innovation project, evaluation and presentation.

Entry requirements

To be eligible for admission to the Graduate Certificate/Diploma/Master of Health Leadership applicants must meet the following specific requirements:

- As a minimum qualification, a recognised Bachelor degree in a health profession
- Evidence of specific professional and/or industry experience.

WA Health nursing and midwifery employees require evidence of organisational support. Please refer to the online application form for health manager/executive signature.

Fees and costs

As the Graduate Certificate in Health Leadership is provided in partnership with WA Health, this has significantly reduced the initial first year student fee to $2,000. This must be paid in full.

International students are not eligible for this program.

Scholarships

Refer to your health service or the WA Health website for further information on scholarships for WA health professionals.
